

Balance Your Environment.....$3000

4 weeks, 30-40 Minutes per week (via phone, email, Skype, or at our location) – or-$4,500 for on-site sessions (Colorado Springs area only)

When we are in harmony with our environment, there is a natural sense of ease. Things seem to happen effortlessly. On the other hand, when we are out of balance, we often can't quite get ahead, despite our best efforts. By applying Feng Shui, the subtle energies of our work and living spaces support and promote our aspirations whether for greater abundance, health, romance and companionship or simply to re-ignite a renewed zest for life. Using my Lifestyle Coaching and interior design knowledge in Feng Shui, each Client will take a journey through transforming your space with the following principles: A Client Questionnaire, that Clients are asked to fill out a detailed questionnaire to express their individual circumstances, goals and challenges. This is all to insure that the Feng Shui consultation is of maximum usefulness, targeted to the client's personal needs. Form Analysis, We apply general Feng Shui principles for peace, harmony, and overall well-being to each room, and to the property as a whole. We redesign the space in way that stimulates the movement of energy and improves its overall feeling dramatically. Compass Calculations, In this most advanced level of analysis, we determine the alignment of the space using the Feng Shui Lo Pan Compass. This reveals the deeper energetic influences that have a subtle yet very tangible impact on health, finances and success. Selecting and integrating different elements of nature (wood, water, earth, fire or metal) allows their healing energy to naturally enhance, or neutralize, these influences. We finish with a Feng Shui Report for Each client receives a clear written report with a floor plan, showing precisely where the prescribed elements, colors and items need to be placed in the space to achieve a positive result.
